ATLANTA, APRIL 17, 1873.

THE LATEST OF THE AWFUL POISONING.

A Death Mistake.

Dr. J. W. Craig Poisoned to Death.

Judge Pullum Recovered.

The following CONSTITUTION extra was issued this morning:

Last night one of the most terrible and heartrending tragedies happened in Atlanta, resulting in the death, by a horrible accident of one of our most esteemed citizens, Dr. J. W. Craig, and the near escape from death of another citizen of high standing, Judge Thomas Pullum, both members of the firm of Beard, Craig & Co., wholesale and retail druggists.

THE CONSTITUTION was requested last night to make no report of the same, and therefore refrained from giving the particulars. To our surprise, we found accounts in the other morning papers of the painful tragedy, and we give our readers the details in an EXTRA, with later particulars.

Late in the afternoon yesterday, Dr. Craig and Judge Pullum went into their cellar to take a drink of whisky, Judge Pullum complaining of being unwell. Mr. J. C. Jones, in charge of the chemical laboratory, offered to fix up the drinks in a nice manner, proposing to flavor them with elixir of orange. It is rumored that he had made, the same day, two preparations of elixir of orange and a preparation of aconite, and that a colored employee of the establishment was instructed to label the two, and labeled them wrong. Mr. Jones, instead of dashing the liquor with orange, used, by mistake, the aconite, one of the most powerful and deadly of poisons. The three gentlemen then imbibed the fatal mixture in ignorance of its deadly nature.

DEATH ENSUES.

Almost immediately the poison began to tell. The gentlemen exhibited violent symptoms of disorder in the stomach. Suspecting something wrong about the drinks, they instituted inquiry and ascertained the terrible mistake about the aconite.

About 9½ o'clock P. M. Dr. Craig died in tortured terribly by his internal sufferings. Every effort was made to relieve him, but unavailingly. He had drank too much of the deadly poison, and it had gained too powerful a grip upon his vitals to admit of relief. His mental condition was agonizing in the extreme, and he deliriously cried out in tones of anguish bewailing the terrible death, and calling for his mother. He finally expired in the most affecting throes of physical and bodily torture.

Dr. Craig drank more freely of the poison than the other gentlemen, and hence his speedy death.

Mr. Daniel, connected with the establishment, used every means, and immediately, to relieve Dr. Craig, but failed.

JUDGE PULLUM.

This gentleman left the store unaware of the fatal draught he had imbibed. When it was discovered that the poison had been used, he was sent after and brought to the store. His sickness soon developed. He was taken to the office of Dr. Miller, and put immediately under medical treatment. He slowly improved during the night. He is now though suffering from some nausea. He has not yet been removed from Dr. Miller's office.

ENTIRELY OUT OF DANGER,

MR. JONES.

This gentleman, the innocent cause of the affair, did not drink enough to be much effected. He had some unpleasant symptoms. He is deeply troubled at the unfortunate mistake, which has so fatally resulted. He is a skillful druggist, and no blame attaches to him.

The affair has created intense excitement, and created profound gloom in the community.

Dr. Craig is a native Georgian, near fifty years of age. He was a man of large means and fine business qualities.

The firm is one of the leading business houses of the Gate City, successors to Pemberton, Taylor & Co.

Judge Pullum is an Alabamian of wealth and character, who has but recently moved to Atlanta.

Mr. Jones is a Virginian.

Some of Dr. Craig's relatives came up to Atlanta this morning on the Georgia Road in utter ignorance of his sudden and terrible death.

Dr. Craig's remains will be carried to Stone Mountain this evening, and will be buried in Gwinnett county to-morrow.

Judge Pullum is sleeping and doing well.

Meeting of the Committees Last Night.

According to a call from the chairman of the Committee on General Management, all the committees appointed to prepare for the reception and entertainment of the Convention of Governors and other prominent men to assemble in this city on May 20th, met at the Hall of the Chamber of Commerce at 8½ o'clock last evening for the purpose of consultation. Gen. A. C. Garlington presided and called the meeting to order.

Col. A. J. McBride, chairman of the sub-committee appointed at the last meeting of the Committee on General Management to confer with the different committees, submitted the following report, which, on motion of O. H. Jones, Esq., was received. The report was then amended by substituting "banquet" for "ball," and, on motion of Dr. C. L. Redwine, was adopted.

THE REPORT.

Your committee respectfully submit the following programme for the proposed convention:

1st. The Committee of Reception shall make the necessary arrangements to receive the delegates arriving on the 19th and 20th; that the committee will be expected to have a sub-committee at the depot to meet each train that arrives during those days, to receive the delegates from other States, and conduct them to their quarters.

2d. It shall be the duty of the Committee on Entertainment, etc., to furnish the Chairman of the Committee on Reception (at least three days before the 19th of May) a list of the hotels and boarding houses where said delegates from other States may be entertained, and their rate of charge per day.

3d. The convention will assemble in the Hall of Representatives at 10 A. M., May 20th.

4th. Before the meeting as above specified, the Committee on Decorations will see that the hall is properly arranged and in order. Immediately following the above, General Gartrell proposes to give an entertainment to the members of the convention and other invited guests at his residence.

5th. The Committee on Serenade will be expected to provide music and serenade the invited guests at the Kimball House, between the hours of 7½ and 10 P. M., on the 20th. The Committee of Arrangements will provide a platform for the music and speakers. The fire companies and other companies and societies are invited to turn out on the above occasion in honor of our invited guests.

6th. Wednesday, the 21st, the Governor will receive the members of the convention, between the hours of 10 A. M., and 12 M.

7th. The convention will meet at such hour as may be fixed by adjournment.

8th. The Committee on the Banquet will make arrangements for the same at the Kimball House, and shall report a full programme of the same to the Committee of Arrangements on or before the 15th of May for their approval.

9th. The Committee on Excursions and Trains will confer at once with the railroads in relation to the transportation of persons attending the convention, and report to the Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements without delay. They will confer with the Committee on Arrangements and make the necessary provision for the excursions.

The Committee of Arrangements will appoint a sub-committee to correspond with the Mayor of Rome, Macon, Brunswick, Savannah and Augusta in reference to our guests passing through those cities.

The Finance Committee is expected to raise the funds necessary to defray the expenses incident to the convention, and will report to the Committee of Arrangements on or before the first of July.

Colonel J. M. Ball stated that pressing business engagements rendered it impracticable for him to serve on the Finance Committee.

He was, on motion, relieved, and Colonel W. H. Weems was appointed to fill the vacancy.

General McRae, Colonel Formare and Colonel S. K. Johnson were added to the Committee on Trains and Excursions.

The Committee then adjourned, subject to the call of the Chairman.

A. C. GARLINGTON, Chairman.

Summary of State News.

MACON.

A negro woman, aided by two accomplices, murdered her husband, in Forsyth on the 20th of March. The fact was not discovered until a few days ago.—Telegraph and Messenger.

Two interesting children, one a year old and the other four, of Mr. T. G. Rosser, of Windsor Hill, died of meningetis last Saturday.——Our letters and personal interviews from people in the country all agree in stating that never were crops of all kinds more flattering at this season of the year, than now in Middle and Southwestern Georgia. Throughout the black belt of Georgia every seed of cotton, they tell us, has come up and is now above ground, promising to give the laborer a reward for his hire.—Enterprise.

GRIFFIN.

Farmers report cotton planting brisk.——Farmers tell us that there never was as much activity displayed in planting crops, and especially cotton, before.—News.

It is stated to us by a gentleman who lives near Monticello that there are now twelve cases of small-pox in that town, and it is feared there will be many more, as a number of people have been exposed to it.—Star.

BRUNSWICK.

There is a garden in Brunswick that yields fifty dollars' worth of vegetables every month.——The wharves of U. Dart, Jr., & Bros., present a busy appearance, loading vessels with lumber.—Seaport Appeal.

SAVANNAH.

On Monday night the well known pleasure resort known as Brookbacher's, on Lover's Lane, and used as a drinking and dancing saloon, was consumed by fire. The loss is about $15,000, on which there was an insurance of $6,000.—News.

The jury at the United States Court, on Monday, was a model one in its way, and quite up to the standard of Radical taste. Nine negroes and three white men. A jury of peers.—Advertiser.

The grand mask, fancy and dress ball at the Savannah Theater, on Monday evening, was not a success.—Republican.

AUGUSTA.

D. W. Owens has been elected Captain, and John Scullley First Lieutenant of Richmond Fire Company No. 7, of Augusta.——An interesting revival has been going on at Asbury Methodist Church lately. Last Sunday one hundred new members were received into the church, fifty-eight of whom were baptized during the morning.——Professor Wiegan has been elected organist of St. Paul's (Episcopal) Church.——Four cases of small pox, the patients all negroes, were sent to the Augusta pest house Monday. The city authorities are taking every precaution to prevent the spread of the disease, and we assure our citizens that there is no necessity for any alarm in reference to it.—Constitutionalist.

COLUMBUS.

The people in Houston county are to vote on the first Monday in July, on the question of "fence" or "no fence".——The Agricultural Society of Berrien county, Ga., at its last meeting, passed a resolution condemning the sale or use of "parlor matches," because of their greater liability to accidental ignition; also intimating that if the old sulphur matches cannot be obtained, the members will return to the method of a half a century ago and use the flint and steel.——A friend from Chattahoochee and Stewart counties reports corn and cotton as being generally up and looking promising, all things considered.—Enquirer.

St. John's Chapel, colored, of Columbus, of which J. M. Cargile is pastor, has received, in eight days, seventy-one members; and besides thirty-nine converts were made.——The Columbus Ice Works complete—cost $14,000.—Sun.

ROME.

Mr. Robert West, son of May G. W. West of Polk county, was killed last Saturday. He was driving an ox team with the wagon heavily loaded. It is supposed that he fell in attempting to get from the wagon when the team was moving, and the wheels ran across his body, crushing it in a horrible manner.—Courier.

A protracted meeting is going on at the Methodist Church in Rome.—Commercial.

NEWNAN.

The farmers are busily engaged in working their crops. The prospects for a good crop this year are very flattering.——The schools in Newnan are in a flourishing condition.——The present indications are, that we will have a good fruit crop.—Semi-Weekly Dispatch.

Turf Notes.

Mr. Ab. Turner's stable, of Nashville, will go to Memphis.

Nellie Gray, the fast daughter of Commodore, is in training at Lexington.

Lampl, who won a fast race in Nashville last fall, recently injured himself by rearing, and has been turned out.

Mayor Thomas, of Lexington, Kentucky, has sold to Mr. J. H. Moon, of Ohio, the fine bay stallion, Ulversou.

The fixed events of the Monmouth Park Association of Long Branch will hereafter close on the 15th of August.

Aureola, the fleet little mare that made the best two mile heat race on record at Lexington, last fall, has let down and will not be trained again.

Tennessee News.

Ninety-two prisoners in the county jail in Memphis.

Lager beer is superseding all other "beverages" in Memphis.

One hundred and fifty-four negroes were baptized in the river near Nashville on Sunday.

About $40,000 has been subscribed toward establishing a cotton factory in Greenville.

The receipts of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad for the past nine months show an increase of $150,000 over the corresponding period of last year, while the liabilities have been decreased $1,922,636.

Daily Condensations.

Boston paid for milk last year $2,953,937.

The State realized over $5,000 in fines and costs from the liquor dealers prosecuted in the Municipal Court in Boston, in a single day last week.

Last year 97,000 criminal arrests were made in New York city.

The London Daily Telegraph has a wider circulation than any other paper in the world, about 175,000. So say the English papers.

A Connecticut firm has shipped over 200,000 clocks to Japan and China during the last two years.

Miscellaneous.

An Irishman was invited by some wags to take a ride in a Sedan chair, which had neither seat nor bottom, after trotting along inside for some distance, was asked by the bearers how he liked it, and replied that "if it wasn't for the name o' the thing, he'd as soon walk."

A young man in Bean Hill, Conn., was wanted as a witness in a liquor case. He saw the constable coming for him, rushed into a tannery and hid himself in the sweating room, where the hair is loosened from the skins by steam. The engineer innocently let on the steam, and the consequence is that the unwilling witness is now as bald as Elisha.

A FIGHTING EDITOR.—An English journal says: "Those who were at Chislehurst on the occasion of the lying in state of the Emperor Napoleon must have noticed a very tall, broad-shouldered man, who, in evening dress, with a fur cape over his shoulders, was unceasingly smoking cigarettes. This was M. Paul de Cassagnac, the celebrated fighting editor of the Pays, who has slain eighteen men by his small sword practice in duels, and who was one of the most vigorous supporters, by pen and sword, of the Bonaparte regime. He is now suffering slightly from rheumatism, but when able he is sworn to has to undergo a duel with M. Manc, the fighting editor of the Gaulois, also an expert swordsman and duelist."

From Our Exchanges.

California has become tired of gold and diamonds, and talks of starting an opal mine.

The average Parisian epicure, tired of ordinary delicacies, has taken to biting his nails.

To prepare for the visitors to the great exhibition Vienna is erecting nine new hospitals all over its suburbs.

Prussia has three hundred and sixty-one schools of agriculture, mining, architecture, navigation, commerce and other technical studies, and two hundred and sixty-five industrial schools.

Connubialities.

Misery loves company, and so does a marriageable young lady.

A young woman in Portland lost her heart the other day, but can't remember whether she lost it in church or at the theater.

A Dubuque testator formally gave, devised and bequeathed his wearing apparel to his wife, for the reason that she had been accustomed to wear 'em during her married life.

Literary.

Mr. William Loyd Garrison is persuaded by his admirers to become a autobiographer.

Under the title of "Lays of Goslinghood," a gentleman of New York city, well known in literary circles, has prepared for the press a volume of verses written by lovesick youths and maudling sentimentalists engaged to be married, or desirous of being so.

The twenty-ninth edition of that clever satire, "Ginx's Baby," has appeared in London.

Varieties.

A Detroit furniture man hung out a card inscribed "Buggy for Sale," and placed it upon a second hand bedstead.

A gentleman took the following telegram to a telegraph office: "I announce with grief the death of Uncle James. Come quick to read will. I believe we are his heirs—John Black." The clerk having counted the words said, "There are two words too many, sir." "All right—cut out 'with grief.'"

Alabama News.

Mr. L. J. Johnson, a prominent citizen of Eufaula, is dead.

Dr. Spangler, the Methodist pastor in charge of a church at Uniontown, while preaching to his congregation, a few days since, was stricken with a paralysis and is in a critical condition.

☞ Mr. Welford, of the firm of Scribner, Welford & Armstrong, in his last London letter to the Bookbuyer, of March 15, says: "One of the most coveted specimens of typography is the earliest well authenticated book whose date is known: the famous so-called Mazarin Bible, of Faust and Schaffer, printed in 1456. No copy of this had been sold since 1853, until one recently appeared in a German catalogue. The owner was agreeably surprised at receiving an order for it from the United States at the earliest possible moment, at the catalogued price of 4,000 thalers, or about £600 sterling. It lately passed through England en route for its final destination. Though wanting sixteen leaves, it was in other respects a splendid copy, in the original monastic binding, and the deficiencies had been supplied by photozincography, so that none but an initiated eye could discover any imperfection."

NESTED SUNDAY.—It is told of a certain well known railroad constructor, that being desirous to push a certain work forward as fast as possible, he wished the laborers to work on Sunday. This they were not disposed to do, and sent a committee to wait on Don T— and convince him of the inconvenience of his demand; but Don T— would not be convinced, when the spokesman of the committee, becoming impatient, said: "Even the Lord rested Sunday." "Very true," was the reply, "but that was after he had finished His contract."—Republican.

I WILL SELL, UPON THE PREMISES, ON Thursday, 17 inst., 4 o'clock, P. M., 21 beautiful unimproved lots, as originally put at my office. Twelve of these lots front on Marietta street, at terminus of Street Railroad, and are just outside the corporation line, and therefore free from city taxes. They lie beautifully, and some of them are part of that once beautiful "Flower Yard." The remainder of the lots front on Ponder Avenue and all have fine shade and beautifully situated. All these lots must and will be sold to make a prompt and final settlement. Titles indisputable. FREE RIDE on the street cars, and a regular old-fashioned PIC NIC is expected. The Georgia Western Railroad is staked and graded along the front of these lots.

When this beautiful site and conveniences are considered, this sale should attract the attention of all classes of buyers for personal use and speculation. Terms, one-half cash; balance the ensuing six months, with ten per cent. interest. G. W. ADAIR,

More Confederate Archives to be Purchased.

An appropriation of $70,000, included in the late Miscellaneous Appropriation bill for the avowed purpose of enabling the Treasury Department to investigate claims and fraudulent demands against the government, is understood to be destined for the purchase of a new batch of archives of the defunct Confederacy. The $75,000 invested in Picketts' now historical trunks, though not successfully placed in a political point of view, is alleged at the Treasury to have been already repaid in the conclusive evidence discovered concerning the transactions of cotton claimants.

Important Supreme Court Decision—The Liability of Railroads.

The Supreme Court of Georgia in its last decision, published in yesterday's CONSTITUTION, made a very important one in regard to railroads.

The Air-Line road altered a public road in cutting its road bed. An excavation was made. A week or so afterwards H. H. Wood fell into the cut at night and broke his leg. The lower court gave him damages, and the Supreme Court sustained them, on the grounds that the road must show a legal change of the road by order, or proof of such long established usage as to justify a presumption of such order, and that the measure of damages is the actual injury suffered, including bodily and mental suffering.

The Peach Trade.

The peach-growing farmers of Maryland and Delaware are trying to secure markets for their fruits without the intervention of New York as a distributing center. The curious fact is developed that Dalaware peaches reach Philadelphia and Newark via New York. Direct shipments to Boston have been tried, but always failed. The Southern farmers are desirous of getting into direct communication with the interior cities, such as Albany, Buffalo, Scranton, etc., but it seems impossible to lift the course of trade out of the old ruts.

The New York dealer claims that the interior towns want nothing but first-rate fruit; that inferior and soft peaches are found in nearly every crate that comes direct from the orchard; that these must be taken out before re-shipment to the other markets; and that there is no other town equal to the task of consuming such a quantity of inferior, half-decayed, weeded-out selections. The re-assorting in New York causes twenty-four hours' delay between the orchards and Albany, a material matter in the handling of a perishable fruit in hot weather.

The taste for fruit is rapidly growing, and the New York monopoly must inevitably be broken up.

The War Against Monopolies.

A correspondent of the World picks out from one day's Illinois papers several facts that indicate the drift of the farmers' movement in the West. For instance, LaSalle county gave Grant 1,100 majority, and yet the Farmers' Club of that county declared, by formal resolution, that the salary grab in Congress was a "burning disgrace," and denounced the high tariff. On the same day the farmers of DuPage and Kane counties met and organized "against railroads and manufacturers." And so in several other counties of Illinois.

The movement in the West is fast becoming a positive protest against the robberies enacted by New England manufacturers in the name of the Federal Government. The State Grange of Kansas fairly presented the case, as it stands to-day, when it demanded administrative economy and purity, free salt and lumber, a low tariff on pig-iron, and the placing on the free list of all articles the duty on which does not meet the cost of collection.

The Radicals are alarmed. The new rebellion is the strongest in Republican districts; and such resolutions as this, passed by largely-attended farmers' conventions, are ominous:

That we will support no man for public office who does not give unmistakable evidence that his feelings and sentiments are identical with the interests of the farmer.

Or this:

That we believe the times demand our united action, regardless of party affiliations, in the selection of men to make laws, execute laws, and sit in judgment on their validity; and that we will not support any man for any office who is not in sympathy with the farmers' organization, or who is now interested in or in the employ of any or all monopolies.

Or this:

That while we consider it the duty of every farmer's organization to shun all entanglement with the present political parties of the country, nevertheless we hold that it is the duty of farmers to wield their power at the ballot-box by electing only such men to office as sympathize with them in the present movement.

The Inter-Ocean labors hard to throw the whole responsibility of the present prostration of Western agriculture upon the railroads alone; but nothing seems surer than that the coming political campaign in the West must be fought on the merits of the twin relics of Republicanism—high tariffs and salary grabbing.

While the farmers of the West seem to understand that our unjust protective tariff is the real source of their poverty, and of the vast wealth in the eastern States, yet they are not unmindful of the monopoly power nearer home. Laws are demanded to prevent the watering of stocks, to abolish the Credit Mobilier "fast-freight" rings, and to punish all combinations of railroads to keep freights up at an unnatural height.

Democratic Steadfastness.

Our worthy neighbor, the Sun, takes to itself our recent remarks about Democratic steadfastness, denies their application, and then, practically admits it by speaking of the "straights" as the nucleus for Democrats to rally around and holding up the "blunder" of the party.

We again reiterate our protest against any such invidious discrimination, and assure our neighbor that such a course will not restore the unity and harmony of the party. The "straights" think the party did wrong. Well, the party returns the compliment. The party and the Straights cannot be re-united by a programme of crimination and recrimination; by a glorification of the Straights for opposing the party programme and really securing Radical success; and we say, in all kindness, the sooner such a programme is stopped, the better for all parties.

The large bulk of the party that supported Mr. Greeley did it conscientiously, had a proper conception of and maintained a true fidelity to Democratic principle, need no nucleus of Straights, or anybody else, to rally to, and require no teaching or injunction from that or any other source to be true to Democratic faith.

We deprecate this sort of thing earnestly. It can do no good. And we again urge its abandonment. If our neighbor cannot press its Democratic views without animadverting on the party for supporting Greeley, it need not be surprised if the party refuse to take its animadversions kindly, and retort the condemnation it still feels for the disintegrations and destructive course of the straight element, upon which it has been silent for the sake of future usefulness. The party is willing to bury the past and wipe out old scores. But the thing must be complete and mutual. It is not willing to be working in harness with men who play the Pharisee in claiming to be the only politically righteous. We resent any imputation upon the Democratic fidelity of the large mass of the party that supported Mr. Greeley. Speaking for that mass, we have no apologies to make, and need no homilies upon our duty, and will swallow no strictures upon or deprecation of our course by other Democrats that we believe failed to do their duty.

We have abstained from any crimination in order to secure party unity. We propose to still abstain if permitted. While we think our "straight" friends did wrong, we are willing to meet upon a common ground of burial of past differences and concert of future action. The basis of this action must be respect for each other's views—silence as to past dissensions and willingness to trust in each other's Democracy. But if all the Democratic fealty is to be offensively claimed by the few "Straights," and caustic is to be unremittingly applied to the majority of the party that differed with them, why the "unity and harmony," that our neighbor so earnest desires, will fail of accomplishment.

The Democratic party wants no "nucleus." It is all nucleus. Its so-called and proposed "straights" nucleus has no more merit than the supposed errant fragments, gyrating loose and aimless according to the seeming opinion of our neighbor. Whenever the Democratic party needs teaching on its faith and fealty, it will be a dead concern.

Again do we suggest most courteously and sincerely for this objectionable style of Democratic rallying to be dropped.

Congressional Aid to Education in the States.

In the month of February, 1872, a bill passed the House of Representatives at Washington, which proposed to devote the whole of the net proceeds of the sales of the public lands to the support of education in the States. The bill provided that one-half of the fund thus raised should be invested in the United States stocks, the interest alone of which was to be distributed among the States in aid of common school education, while the corpus of the other half was to be used directly for the same purpose. The bill further provided that the distribution of the fund should be made, for the first ten years, upon the basis of illiteracy. We do not now recollect all the details of the bill, but we were very much impressed at the time with the spirit of liberality which was everywhere apparent in its provisions. There was no attempt made to control educational operations in the States, or to lay hold of this interest and impress upon it the stamp of nationality. It is madness to say that to a policy of that kind, we would be uncompromisingly opposed. The tendency of Congressional legislation on all subjects, for more than a decade of years, has been in the direction of centralism; and advocates of a national system of education are now to be found in the New England States. We are glad to be able to say, however, that the leaders of educational enterprise in the great States of the north-west take a much juster view. They have not hesitated to place themselves in decided opposition to the movement. While they may not agree with the South in their ideas of local self-government, they clearly see that sparseness of population and heterogeniety in the elements composing it and other local peculiarities originate questions which can be far more wisely dealt with by the State Legislatures. The bill to which we have alluded, in the true spirit of statesmanship, left the control of the whole subject to local legislation, and simply proposed to furnish pecuniary aid in carrying out measures devised by those more familiar with the actual wants and conditions of the people in whose interest the money was to have been expended. There were certain points, however, in which the bill was susceptible of very decided improvement. Instead of using one-half only of the corpus of the fund for the support of schools, it would be far better for the South at least to apply the whole of it in that way for the next four years. Now is the day of trial with the people of this section. If we can get our systems of public instruction under way and perpetuated for five or six years without interruption, after that they will carry themselves forward by their momentum.

Another change, which we think would have been an improvement, would have been to give the Southern States and those States recently admitted into the Union, whose school systems are in their infancy, the whole of the fund. The originators of the measure seemed to be endeavoring to approach this result practically, when they made illiteracy the basis of distribution; and it may be that the only thing in the way of the open occupancy of this ground was the difficulty of legislating in the interest of a particular section. If this difficulty can be overcome, there can be no doubt that what we suggest is the true policy for the whole country. In those States where public schools have been established for years, the system has acquired such strength as to need but little aid to be derived from the national fund. It is far otherwise with us. Not only is the white race greatly impoverished and much less able than formerly to help itself, but we have the whole of the colored race, but little [illegible] numerically than the white, in a state of ignorance, and destitute of the material resources necessary to enable them to render as [illegible]. Our condition, in this respect, is without a parallel in history; and we feel assured that the interests of the whole country—North as well as South—demand that whatever help the United States Government may be able to give be bestowed in whole, for several years to come, upon those States needing the aid. We have written this article with the view of calling the attention of our delegation in Congress to the general subject. From the passage of the bill to which we have referred by the House, we are induced to hope that some wise measure of the kind can be devised which may yet become a law. We observe that General Gordon has been placed upon the Committee of Education and Labor in the Senate, and we desire to invite his attention to a field of effort in which he may have the opportunity presented of rendering signal services to his section.

Live Stock to Population.

Professor Thorold Rogers of Oxford University, England, has made up a curious return of the proportion of domesticated live stock to population in the most prominent countries of the world. It shows the following results:

Great Britain—One cow to every 12 persons; one sheep to every person, and one pig to every 10 persons.

France has a cow to every 6 persons; a sheep to every person and a pig to every 6 persons.

Sweden has a cow to every 3½ persons; a sheep to every 2½ person, and a pig to 13 persons.

Norway has a cow to 2½, a sheep to 1, and a pig to 18 persons.

Denmark has a cow to 2, a sheep to 1, and a pig to 4½ persons.

Prussia has a cow to 5, a sheep to 1, and a to 5 persons.

Wurtemburg has a cow to 4, a sheep 2½, and a pig to 7 persons.

Bavaria has a cow to 4, a sheep to 2½, and a pig pig to 5 persons.

Saxony has a cow to 6, a sheep to 8, and a pig to 8 persons.

Holland has a cow to 4, a sheep to 4, and a pig to 15 persons.

Belgium has a cow to 7, a sheep to 9, and a pig to 8 persons.

Austria has a cow to 6, a sheep to 2, and a pig to 5 persons.

Switzerland has a cow to 3½, a sheep to 5, and a pig to 7½ persons.

The United States has a cow to 4 persons, a sheep to each person, and a pig to 1½ persons.

The Dominion of Canada is not included in Mr. Rogers' return—the figures not having yet been made public. So far as the province of Ontario is concerned, the census returns of 1871 will compare satisfactorily with those of any other country.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

Agriculture in the Sotuh.

Systematic Rotation of Crops—Commercial Manures—Florida in a Nut Shell—Increased Value of Lands.

From the monthy report of the condition of American Agriculture for March, published by the Department of Agriculture at Washington, we cull the following information with special reference to the status of Georgia.

ROTATION OF CROPS.

In South Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas, and in all the gulf States, systematic rotation is very little thought of. Our correspondent in Columbia county, Georgia, thus reflects a leading phase of popular opinion in the South:

Although the benefits following rotation are acknowledged by the majority of farmers, in this section, yet it is practiced by comparatively few. Many think the extensive use of "commercial fertilizers" does away with the necessity for this annual change of crops, and the fertilizers used is selected with direct reference to the crop to be produced, and the crop is thus fed and grows by this outside help, thus representing too great a drain upon the soil itself. This creates an idea in the minds of those who practice this system that the outlay of money is a salve to the soils, and to this extent not only preserves but increases its fertility; others maintain that this extensive and general use of stimulating manures, while they may and do increase the production, do it at the expense and the ultimate deterioration of the soil, in other words they "kill the land," and the old, worn-out lands of Virginia are cited in vindication of this theory.

Cotton, corn, small grain, sugar-cane, sweet-potatoes, and a few other crops are grown according to prospective local or general demand, and often in exhausting succession upon the same land. Soil preparation and fertilization are often entirely ignored, and when practiced at all are very imperfectly attended to except in the case of cotton. Many counties report the repetition of this crop through twenty or twenty-five years, while in one—Wilcox, Alabama—lands have been kept fifty years without intermission. Occasionally this crop is alternated with corn, small grain, or grass. In some districts the soil appears to bear this strain with but little inclination. In other cases, however, the normal results of this ruinous system are painfully apparent. In Louisiana new-comers occasionally attempt to introduce improvements, but are unable to resist the influence of universal example, and ultimately fall into the old routine.

RECUPERATIVE PLANTING.

Experiments in clovering have been quite unsuccessful lately on account of the extreme drought. Commercial fertilizers have greatly disappointed expectations, but lime has produced very favorable results. In North Carolina some isolated efforts are made by intelligent men to improve their lands, but generally the idea is entertained by few. As an excuse for inaction it is alleged in some quarters that crops are seldom housed till after Christmas, and that the weather after that period is too cold for out-door labor. This from the latitude of North Carolina will sound oddly to Northern and Western farmers, who find time for extensive and important farm labors during each winter. In South Carolina the phosphates, of which large deposits have been found in that State, are extensively applied, but not always with intelligent reference to their specific effects. These applications are mostly made for the immediate results, and not for permanent improvement, which appears to be but little regarded. Georgia makes an extensive use of commercial fertilizers upon cotton. Gwinnett county consumed about 2,000 tons during 1872. In Franklin county they have been applied at rates varying from 800 to 1,000 pounds per acre. In a few counties, such as Gordon, clover is raised in increasing quantities, and, in some cases, has been plowed under in full growth. Of the lands within ten miles of railroad in this county, about 25 per cent. are in clover. The difficulties of recuperative farming are thus stated by a correspondent in Talbot county:

Nothing is regarded by farmers so profitable as cotton. The lands generally produce such small crops of corn that it will not pay the expense of the laborers we are obliged to employ, owing to the fact of their having but little regard for loss of time, even when they are interested in the crop; moreover, an acre of land that will produce eight bushels of corn will produce one hundred and twenty-five pounds of lint cotton, which of course is much more profitable.

The following, from Gadsden county, Florida, presents the case of that State in a nutshell:

The efforts in this county are rare and feeble. A few are impressed with the importance of the subject, and are making some efforts in the proper direction, but the great majority of planters have ignored it entirely. Under the present system the land is either rented to the laborer annually for a specified sum per acre, or he receives as compensation for his services a share of the crop produced; in either case his interest ceases with the housing of the crop.

VALUE OF LANDS IN GEORGIA.

Hart—Good farms since 1865 have, in many instances, doubled their value. Poor lands, thousands of acres of which are turned out, have not increased in value since that time.

Marion—In 1860 farm lands were worth from $10 to $20 per acre; at present from $7 to $15.

Forsyth—Worth 50 per cent. more than in 1860, and 25 per cent. more than four years ago; lands are now [illegible] from $1 to $20 per acre.

Brooks—Lands that sold freely in 1860, at $20 per acre, are upon the market now in [illegible] per acre.

[illegible] land, under the present system, their becoming entirely worn out and worthless is only a question of time. From tightness in money matters, mostly, lands generally will not command as good prices as two or three years ago; but within a few miles of town or railroad communications they are much higher than in 1860.

Franklin—Farm lands worth $10 per acre; wild lands $1 to $3.

Douglas—Increasing; 20 per cent. higher than in 1860; but timber lands 20 per cent. cheaper.

Effingham—Not improving in value; worth from $1 to $3 per acre.

Cobb—Increasing; average value equal to that of 1860, or $10 per acre. In some cases land that sold in 1867 and 1868 at $5 per acre, would now sell for $20.

Bartow—Increasing; notwithstanding the ravages of the war and consequent impoverishing of our people, their lands are all 10 per cent. higher than in 1860, and very much higher than in 1866.

Gwinnett—Increasing rapidly; one-third higher.

Carroll—Increasing on account of new railroads running through the county; 100 per cent. more valuable than in 1860.

Pickens—Have decreased in value, uplands at least 100 per cent. compared with 1860. Know of nothing that will remedy us except a railroad. We have one of the finest counties in the State, abounding in iron ore, marble, and inexhaustible, never-failing water power. All we need is to have our resources developed.

The Man Whom Grant Pardoned Out of the Albany Penitentiary.

Washington Letter to the Springfield Republican.]

I witnessed a singular spectacle on Pennsylvania avenue the other day—that of a gentleman gayly dressed and driving a fast team, and evidently in excellent spirits. Yet this gentleman is just out of the Albany penitentiary, and he, only a short time ago, stole hundreds of thousands of dollars from the Treasury. It was Major Hodges, the thief who, by the interference of the President, was not punished for taking a vast amount of the people's money. He is warmly welcomed by many of his old friends, which shows that the American people care not much for theft in itself, so that it is done in a respectable and gigantic fashion. There can be no question as to the facts in this case. Major Hodges robbed the Treasury of tens of thousands of dollars, and he is not punished, simply because his social standing was high. If he had stolen a watch or a diamond pin he would still be in the penitentiary, but to steal a hundred thousand dollars is a safe and respectable crime, and that is the lesson his life teaches to the boys of America.

The Public Printer.

It is a very serious matter to compromise the honor and integrity of a gentleman by any publication that is not based upon real facts. It is our opinion that the difficulty lies in a difference of opinion as to what expenses are to be included in the cost of the public printing. The mere composition, press-work, paper and stationery required do not constitute the full cost of the printing. Office rent, lights and fuel, and many other incidental expenses go to the expense of printing, which may not be recognized by the letter of the law in regard to the 25 per cent. allowed as commission to the State Printer.

Mr. Hemphill has, doubtless, included these expenses in making up his bill of costs, while the law is construed by the present Comptroller General so as to include only actual cost of composition, stationery and press-work—leaving the Public Printer to get his pay for other expenses out of the twenty-five per cent. commission allowed.

We shall look on the side of this question in a light favorable to Mr. Hemphill until a contrary opinion is forced upon us.

Mr. Hemphill bears and has ever borne a character for the highest integrity, and it will be a difficult task to convince the public mind in this city or State that he has committed an act that compromises his honor in the least.—Atlanta Sun.

Female Lawyers in Illinois.

Meeting of the Board of Steamboat Inspectors.

Four Negroes Lynched in Arkansas.

Death of Prince Henry, of Bourbon

WASHINGTON.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Attorney General has no advices of a riot in Grant parish, La. He thinks the affair exaggerated.

The President and family have gone to St. Louis for three weeks.

A high military officer says that it will take weeks to finish the Modocs.

The Supreme Court confirms the decision of the Supreme Court of Illinois that women are ineligible to that bar. Judge Chase dissented.

The Board of Supervising Inspectors of Steamboats, D. D. Smith, Inspector General, are now in session at Washington. At their meeting to-day the Committee on Boilers and Machinery was instructed to report to the Board the draft of a circular, to be distributed among iron manufacturers, boiler makers, and inspectors. On the inspection of boiler plates it was resolved that the department circular requiring one copy of each certificate of inspection to be returned to the department, unnecessary, and that the Secretary of the Treasury be requested to abolish the same. It was also resolved that hereafter two certificates of inspection should be required on all tug, tow, and freight steamers. The following resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules and Regulations:

Resolved, That hereafter fire extinguishers shall not be required on tug, tow, or freight steamers; neither shall the same be required on passenger steamers of less than 1,000 tons.

The following are the committees for 1873: Amendments to the Law, Shepard, Rogers, and Carr; Rules and Regulation, Devenny, Stephenson, Shepard, Descipline; Licensed Officers, Burnett, Devenny, Stephenson; Annual Reports, Printing and Blank Forms, Carr, Ralph and Low Boilers and Machinery, Low, Bemis and Rogers; Gauges, Safety Valves, Fusible Plugs and Instruments, Bemis, Meashaw and Shepard; Fire Apparatus, Rogers, Burnett and Ralph; Life Saving Apparatus, Meashaw Bemis and Burnett; Pilot Rules of the Lakes and Seaboard, Ralph, Low and Meshaw; Pilot Rules of Western Rivers, Stephenson, Devenny and Carr.

PROBABILITIES.

The storm centre in North Carolina moves slowly northeast and that in Illinois extends over the lower lakes and New York State. For New England on Thursday continued northeast and southeast winds with threatening and rainy weather; for the Middle States easterly winds, falling barometer with cloudy weather and possibly light rain except in Maryland and Virginia, where as well as in North Carolina and the Ohio Valley, cold westerly winds and cloudy or clearing more probable; for the Southern States generally, westerly winds and clear weather; and from Ontario increasing northeast winds with rain; for Lakes Erie, Huron and Michigan northeast winds backing to north with cloudy weather and light rain; for Lake Superior, the Mississippi and Missouri valley, rising barometer and cold northerly winds.

TENNESSEE.

FOUR NEGROES LYNCHED.

MEMPHIS, April 16.—The Arkansas Bulletin publishes an account of the lynching of four negroes for committing a most cruel rape.

RAILROAD DAMAGED.

The Memphis and Little Rock Railroad is badly washed by the flood.

INDIANA.

KOKOMO, April 16.—In the riot between white miners and negroes from Virginia [illegible]

[illegible] three policemen and one a preacher were badly injured. The militia from Indianapolis stopped the row and arrested several of the ring leaders.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Barlow & Allen, nephew and grand son of Commodore Vanderbilt, have failed. Much excitement prevailed in Wall street.

The Prussia took ½ million specie.

ITALY.

THE POPE IMPROVING.

ROME, April 16.—The bulletins announce the health of the Pope improving.

SPAIN.

SPANISH TROOPS' PAY INCREASED.

MADRID, April 16.—The reported revolt of the Spanish troops in Porto Rico is untrue. They demanded an increase of pay, which the Government granted.

PRINCE HENRY KILLED.

It is reported that Prince Henry of Bourbon has been killed.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

SPAIN.

REINFORCEMENT OF TROOPS.

MADRID, April 16.—Additional reinforcements of troops have arrived at Puigcerda where they were received with great enthusiasm by the populace. The Carlists are again

THREATENING THE TOWN.

The Government has received the intelligence of a crushing defeat by the Republicans of the Carlist force at San Loreny. De LaMuga is in the province of Gerona. Many Carlists are surrendering to the Government troops in the hope of receiving amnesty. It is reported that the son of Prince Henry, of Bourbon, duke of Seville, who took up arms in the cause of Dan Carlos, was killed in a late engagement between the national forces and insurrectionists. The detachment of Carlists, under Saballs, which before made the attack on the town of Puigcerda was sent to hamper the march of the regular troops, who were hastening to relieve that town. They were repulsed by the Republicans and lost three hundred men exclusive of prisoners.

DESERVED COMPLIMENT TO AN ATLANTA BOY.—On yesterday, Joseph S. Wallace received from Secretary Robeson his appointment to the United States Military Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, and instructing him to report for duty at once. Young Mr. Wallace is about sixteen years of age. This appointment, we believe, was left in the hands of the Representative from this District, Hon. J. C. Freeman, who made the appointment, giving Mr. Wallace preference over many others. It was a well deserved compliment.

CARLEY, DUCK & CO.—At No. 33, Pryor street, under the Air-Line House, is the store of Carley, Duck & Co. They are manufacturer's agents for the great Southern oil works, the great Southern color works, Kentucky white lead works, pure English varnish, and wholesale dealers in window glass, lamps, artists' colors and materials. The store presents an attractive display of lamps. Their stock of artists' materials is large and complete. The cellar is filled with oil of all kinds. The oil trade has assumed huge proportions, and Messrs. C. D. & Co. seem to enjoy a large portion of it.

FIRE.—About two o'clock yesterday the alarm of fire was sounded. A dense smoke was seen on McDonough street and on repairing to the spot it was discovered to be the cottage of Rev. W. H. Hunt, the courteous and prompt Deputy Clerk of the United States District Court. The fire originated between the ceiling and roof of the kitchen, and is supposed to have been caused by a rat carrying off a match, as there had been no fire in the stove since 8 o'clock that morning. Mrs. Hunt was in the front room when she discovered the fire. Nearly all the furniture was saved, though damaged by breakage. The roof of the house was burned off. Mr. Hunt had the dwelling insured for $600, and his furniture for $300 with L. B. Davis. The insurance will cover the loss. No. 1 was out there, with her steamer, pretty soon after the alarm was given. The fire companies and the Hook and Ladder were out. The house was near the residence of Rev. A. T. Spalding. That gentleman at once tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Hunt one of his houses, just vacated.

CARICATURING COURTS.—Our cotemporaries in this place are much given to holding up our Honorable Recorder's Court in a very ridiculous light, and to making painful efforts to be very funny at the expense of said Court and its officials. This occurs every day. Very occasionally a close and laborious reader can, with difficulty find the faintest glimmerings of humor in these caricatures, but usually the evident painfulness of the exertion worse than destroys the effect.

This is all wrong and is productive of evil results. It is also in exceedingly bad taste. The Recorder's Court is a tribunal, as honorable as important in its sphere as any Court in the land. All attempts to place in a ridiculous light its presiding officer, and his assistants, cannot but be most injurious to the Court, and unpleasant to these gentlemen. We hope that a sense of propriety, if of nothing else, will check these attempts at misapplied wit, and that they will be expended in future upon more appropriate subjects.

GEORGIA TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.—The seventh annual meeting of the Georgia Teachers' Association will be held in Atlanta on the 29th and 30th instant and May 1st at the Kimball House.

Tuesday's (April 29) programme embraces the following:

From this it will be seen that the number and variety of the subjects discussed is great. The best teachers of the State will be present, and some very distinguished Educators from other States.

One interesting feature will be the visit to the Public Schools of our city, which will be in session for that purpose.

Teachers intending to come are requested to inform Prof. W. M. Janes, Chairman of the Reception Committee. It will be a large and interesting meeting.

THE TRAGIC MISTAKE.

The Blunder Poisoning.

Further Facts and Particulars of the Death of Dr. Craig.

Statement of Dr. Lowe.

A reporter of THE CONSTITUTION got the following statement of facts from Dr. Lowe, who was with Dr. Craig until his death.

The Doctor met Dr. Craig at the door of the drug store in company with Judge Pullum, at almost six o'clock, and Dr. Craig asked him if lemon or orange peel, or any of its preparations, after taking it produced a tingling sensation in the ends of the fingers and toes. I told him not that I had ever heard or read. Dr. C. remarked that he felt peculiar and badly, and had the tingling sensation in his fingers and toes.

Dr. Craig asked Judge Pullum how he felt and the Judge said he had an uneasy sensation in his stomach, supposing it was from the colic he had had all day, though he had taken a dram before Dr. Craig did with the aconite in it.

Dr. Craig went down into the cellar and consulted Mr. Jones, who, upon examination, ascertained that he had seasoned the spirits with tincture of aconite instead of elixir of orange or lemon. Upon finding that he had taken the poison he immediately took an emetic of mustard, remarking and requested a messenger to be sent after Judge Pullum with the information, who had left the store to go home, the messenger taking with him a bottle of brandy and a box of mustard, they being the only antidotes recommended for poisoning by aconite.

"I AM POISONED,"

Dr. Craig feeling somewhat relieved by the emetic, an emesis being produced freely, and afterwards taking a drink of brandy he concluded to go home. He asked me to walk with him. I told him certainly.

THE WALK HOME.

I proposed to ride. He thought walking would do him good. The Doctor walked with tremendous rapidity and in an unnatural manner, and Dr. Lowe could scarcely keep up with him, and finally asked him not to walk so fast. He remarked that he was eager to get home to get some hot coffee and some warm applications to his feet.

When about two-thirds of the way home, he said, "Dr. Lowe, my legs are cramping. I am fearful I am going to be very bad off."

Some men on the street asked what was the matter, we were going so fast. We made no reply.

AT HOME.

On arriving at home he undressed and, had hot applications put to his feet and mustard all over his body. His pulse was normal. Dr. Asher came in and attended the case with me. Dr. Craig remarked to me, his suffering being intense;

"Dr. Lowe, I shall certainly have convulsions. I know I shall have asphyxia."

His pulse was still healthy. We then treated his case with brandy internally, and with mustard and hot applications externally. He said he was perfectly in his senses, for which he was extremely thankful. He said he had made no will, and wanted certain disposition made of portions of his effects, and asked if I thought a witness would be necessary. I told him I supposed not. He then named over clearly twice what he wished done with certain property.

Dr. Craig spoke feelingly of his mother and of his desire to see her, and during the night from any blame in the matter. About half past eight o'clock he had

A CONVULSION.

At this time Dr. Heery came in. All thought Dr. Craig dead then, and a feeling of sensation was produced among those around. On being raised up to see if he was living, his head fell perfectly limber on his shoulder and remained in that condition about two minutes. With a considerable gasping effort he caught his breath and called again for stimulants, saying to Dr. Asher and myself both:—

"I CERTAINLY AM GOING TO DIE."

We gave him brandy and coffee, and had friction with dry mustard applied all over his body. He suffered unspeakably in that condition until about half past nine o'clock, when supervened, and his horrible agonies were terminated in death.

Dr. Lowe says that he never saw greater suffering.

Dr. Craig was entirely conscious and described every symptom beforehand just as it afterwards came, with perfect accuracy and coolness. Dr. Lowe read to Dr. Craig from the Dispensary all about aconite, for which the books provide no certain antidote.

Every part of his body, every member, muscle, nerve and inch of flesh was affected. He said there was no chance for him to escape from death, his agonies were so great. He tossed about in writhings and distortions, calling for remedies to be applied promptly.

THE FATAL DRINK.

Dr. Craig and Judge Pullum did not drink together as has been stated. Judge Pullum was unwell, suffering from colic, and went down in the cellar to get Mr. Jones to make him a hot punch. Mr. Jones had a lemon and used it in the punch, and also proposed to add the elixir of orange to make the drink nice. Judge Pullum took the drink and, as he afterwards said,

"THOUGHT IT A LITTLE FLAT."

He went up-stairs and told Dr. Craig what a nice punch he had, and the doctor went down and had Mr. Jones to fix him one, little dreaming that he was taking his death.

The aconite bottle was marked "tincture of orange" by mistake.

Dr. Craig was in the best of spirits during the day. He had a law case decided in his favor in the Supreme Court, and was unusually lively.

Dr. Lowe is a partner in the concern. He made his statement in a clear and lucid manner.

Dr. Craig's remains, according to his own request, will be taken to Gwinnett county to be buried this afternoon.

Judge Pullum last night was improving. He complains only of nausea at his stomach.

PERSONAL.—Prof. W. D. Williams, principal of the Asylum for the Blind, at Macon, was in the city last night.

Gen. D. H. Hoke, of North Carolina, is in the city, the guest of Prof. H. H. Smith.

Thomas McGill, the General Southern Agent of the Virginia and Tennessee Air-Line, has returned from Montgomery.

At the Kimball House last night the following were registered among others: P. J. McIntyre, N. Y., C. D. Findlay, Macon; C. F. Avery, Tallahassee; Mrs. D. B. Harrell, Mrs. C. D. Pearson, Ga.; Gen. W. S. Holt, W. B. Johnston, C. A. Nutting, Macon; Hon. J. P. King, Augusta; A. J. Swan, St. Louis; S. M. Scott, Nashville.

The National Hotel had a goodly number of arrivals and Charley Lunsford was as genial as a Mayday morning. Among the arrivals we note: S. Hicks, Chattanooga; A. G. Harris, Jonesboro; J. R. Branham, Oxford; J. D. Stewart, Griffin; S. W. Swanson, LaGrange; C. H. Rochester, Ky.; J. D. Collins, Duluth Jockey Club; R. M. Clayton, H. K. Nash, J. A. Deal, Air Line Railroad; T. A. Foster, Calhoun; D. H. Talley, Tennessee; T. G. Garrett, General Agent M. & C. Railroad; J. W. Adams, Griffin; W. W. Conner, J. D. Evans, Indianapolis.

SUPREME COURT OF GEORGIA, April 16.

ATLANTA CIRCUIT.

No. 15. Argument concluded.

No. 16. Lewis Tumlin vs. the Virginia Home Insurance Company. Award, from Fulton. Argued. Pope & Brown, for plaintiff in error. Peeples & Howell, contra.

No. 17. S. W. Lee vs. T. M. Clements. Complaint, from DeKalb. L. J. Winn, Gartrell & Stephens, B. H. Hill & Sons, for plaintiff in error. Hill & Candler, contra.

Pending the opening argument of L. J. Winn, Esq., the court adjourned until 10 o'clock A. M. tomorrow.

Fulton County Superior Court.

At yesterday's session of this body, more than the usual quantity of business was transacted.

The common law docket was continued, and the following cases disposed of:

Twelve judgments were taken by default.

One judgment was taken pro confesso.

Four cases were dismissed, including one against the Western and Atlantic Railroad.

Two cases were settled and the costs paid by the parties.

One action of complaint was tried, the jury returning a verdict for plaintiff.

One bill for injunction was dismissed by the parties.

The case of Sarah E. Atkins vs. the Mayor and Council of Atlanta, complaint was also dismissed at the plaintiff's cost.

Judge Hopkins rather astonished the members of the bar yesterday by fining two of our most prominent lawyers.

One was fined ten dollars for interrupting counsel during the argument of a case, and the other was fined five dollars for too much talking in the court room.

A witness was also fined five dollars for the same thing.

Court adjourned pending the trial of Holmes Hale, survivor, for the use of his wife and minor children vs. Wyley O'Shields, complain't, number 93, Common Law Docket, October Term, 1871.

The Justice's Court.

Susan Williams, a colored damsel, made her appearance before Justice Butt yesterday, and with many tears, set forth that a certain colored Lothario, Stafford Mimms by name, was the father of a certain interesting infant of which she was the unhappy mother. She further showed that this gay deceiver had not only failed to marry her, but had recently married another woman to prevent a similar prosecution, and had left herself and her child in a destitute condition.

A warrant was duly issued and Stafford brought into Court to answer this Charge. The defendant admitted, in substance, all that the plaintiff alleged against him, but became very contrite, made abundant promises to take care of the girl and her child, and as an evidence of his sincerity, emptied his pockets of a few ragged green-backs, and greasy shinplasters which he forthwith turned over to her. Susan was much mollified by this generous conduct, and the case was finally disposed of by an agreement that the defendant should be permitted to go at liberty as long as he kept up to his promises about providing for herself and her child.

The perjury case, pending before Justice Butt, and to which we alluded in the last edition of this paper, was tried yesterday morning. It resulted in the acquittal of Francis Reid, the prosecutrix, Betty Meyers, having utterly broken down in her charge. The warrant was dismissed at the prosecutrix's costs.

A case against Eliza Blackwell, colored, for keeping a lewd house, has been pending before Justice Hammond for several days. She was arrested at the instance of Jane Gresham, but up to this time the prosecutrix has failed to have her witnesses on hand for the trial. The house itself is situated near the corner of Marietta and Broad streets, in the very heart of the city. If Jane can establish what she charges, it should be broken up without delay.

Station House Report.

A negro man named Jack Rogers was arrested yesterday by the police, by virtue of a warrant charging him with larceny, and was provided with lodgings for the night.

Bass Winn, colored, was indicted in Greene county a short time ago for carrying concealed weapons. He got a confiding friend to go on his bond, and then sloped for Atlanta. The police picked him up yesterday, and will ship him back again.

There were, besides the above, three city arrests for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Special Dispatch to the Howe Sewing Machine Agency of this City.

NEW YORK,—April 16.—Reports gotten up by the enemies of the Howe Sewing Machine Company, stating that they had not paid their employees, are not true.

WE would call the attention of our readers—at least those of them who desire to have a good time—to the dance on Friday evening at the National Hotel. This entertainment is to be given and managed by a number of the best young men in our city, and that alone is a sufficient guarantee of its success. Invitations have been scattered with a profuse hand among our belles, and a plenty of them will be on hand. Gentlemen who desire to attend with ladies can procure tickets from Mr. Walter Mitchell, at Jones' clothing store, and from Mr. Otis Jones, at the Bank of the State of Georgia. Let there be a large turnout.

GRAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

A Brilliant Success—Large and Appreciative Audience.

Last night the Beethoven Society and Freyer's Orchestra were greeted at DeGive's with one of the finest audiences we have seen assembled in Atlanta for some time. Every seat down stairs was filled. We were gratified at seeing so many ladies out.

The entertainment began with an overture, "Norma," by the Orchestra. The Orchestra being composed of the cream of musical talent, rendered this in exceedingly fine style.

Next was the chorus from Verdi—"Crowned with the tempest," by the Beethoven Society. Notwithstanding quite a number of the lady members were prevented from attending by reason of sickness, the singing of this piece was faultless. In fact, there is no city that excels Atlanta in musical talent.

The next treat in order was a solo, "In questa semplice," by Miss Kennedy. This young lady is the fortunate possessor of a voice as sweet and flute-like as any we have ever heard. Besides its natural attractions, it has been carefully cultivated. The difficult yet beautiful piece was a severe test, yet Miss Kennedy executed it perfectly, and completely charmed the large audience. She was listened to with the deepest attention, and complimented with round after round of applause.

Miss Kennedy was followed by Messrs. J. Schaen and H. Kissel. These gentlemen gave us an instrumental duet upon the Flute and Clarinett. The piece was a Serenade. They were accompanied by a portion of the Orchestra. Messrs. S. and K. well deserve the reputation they have established for themselves as musicians of the first order. The "Serenade" could not have been made more delightful, and would have driven away sleep from the eyes, and won the heart of any fair one in the world. The audience listened to these gentlemen with evident approbation, and many flattering comments were passed upon them.

The "Serenade" was followed by a trio, entitled "Chi-mi-Frena," by Donizetti, and executed by Messers. Haynes and Hugh Angier and Mrs. Thompson. These are three of our most favorably known and popular amateur musicians. Their rendition of this beautiful piece added many new laurels to their crowns, and showed that their reputations were well merited.

They all sang their parts admirably, and received some very noisy demonstrations of delight from the audience. Part first of the entertainment was closed with that superb waltz of Strauss', "On the Beautiful Blue Danube," rendered by the orchestra.

It would almost be impossible to describe the exquisite beauty with which this piece was rendered. It was as much as many of the audience could do to keep from dancing out-right. We cannot praise Freyer's Orchestra too highly for their perfect time and harmony. The waltz formed a most beautiful conclusion to the beautiful pieces that had preceded it.

The Orchestra rendered the Overture, "Poet and Peasant," with fine effect.

Mr. Hugh Angier, (baritone) who possesses a remarkably fine voice, of great volume and compass, in the solo, "Povero Lionello," carried the audience by storm. He was greeted with rounds of applause. Several boquets were thrown to him, and he was called back. This time he sang "The Vagabond," in superb style and with fine effect.

The very presence of Prof. Freyer on the stage seemed to animate the audience. His beaming eye and radiant face seemed to shed music all around him. When, however, he took up the violin, and executed the solo "I Air Varie," the enthusiasm of the auditory rose to the highest pitch. Boquets were thrown at him amidst prolonged applause, and the Southern Ole Bull was summoned back. This time he executed some of the sweetest and most delicate [illegible] "Coming Thro' the Rye," "Auld Lang Syne" and "Dixie," each by turn captivated the assemblage.

The orchestra rendered the "Railroad Galop" with life-like imitations. One imagined himself on the [illegible] The whole concluded with the chorus from Haydn, "The Heavens are Telling," by the Beethoven Society and the orchestra. To say that it was grand does not convey the truth.

Prof. Hensler at the piano gave some fine touches of his art in evoking music from that instrument. The people have set the seal of their approval on these societies and their efforts. The desire is general for another concert soon. We trust that another will be given.

Atlanta appreciates good musical talent.

UNCLE SAM'S WHITEWASHED LAMBS.

From the New York Star.]

Once
Uncle Sam's
Little lambs
Were white as snow;
But
Uncle Sam's
Little lambs
Went where lambs ought not go.

Then
Uncle Sam's
Little lambs
Got their fleeces black with soot;
So
Uncle Sam's
Little lambs
Looked more like the wicked goat.

Now
Uncle Sam's
Little lambs
Didn't like goats very well;
For
Uncle Sam's
Little lambs
Knew that goats were sent to—Halifax.

Then
Uncle Sam's
Little lambs
Got their friends to take a brush;
When
Uncle Sam's
Little lambs
Were covered o'er with whitewash.

Now
Uncle Sam's
Other lambs
In corruption will rush;
For
Uncle Sam's
Little lambs
Keep on hand a whitewash brush.

JAMES MONTGOMERY BAILY.

The Danbury News Man.

It is hardly possible at the present time to take up a newspaper without finding something within its columns from the Danbury News. It may not be credited; it may be almost hidden away among its companion lines of "wit and humor," but it is almost certain to be there, and those who have learned to enjoy and appreciate the inspiration of the Danbury humorist, find them out and recognize them from their indescribable quality of ginius. The reputation of a genuine humorist—that rarest of literary wonders, as colorist are more rare in artists—was never more quietly made than that of "the man of Danbury." He wrote no book; he made no series of articles in any well-known journal; he made no studied production of any kind. He went about his chosen labor of editing a weekly newspaper in a small New England town, and enlivened its columns with those quaint and flavorous "local items" which, unexpectedly and despite himself, have made the author's sayings household words. Considering that his bright thoughts are so well known, it seems at first a little singular that his history, even his name, should be known to few. But this is no doubt because he has taken no step whatever to make himself known, as have other men in like circumstances. He has been contented to write and work and wait. We do not know, indeed, that Mr. Baily's name was ever mentioned in print, in reference to the Danbury News items then floating through the press, until the Reporter called attention to the authorship in its issue of July 29, 1872. The items were constantly copied, however, as early as 1870, and it may be that the press had begun to suppose it had a natural right to them. orme lately some of them have deepened in humor, and have lengthened out into sketches, attracting still more curiosity, and it is certainly time that the world should be more familiar, both with the man and his history.

James Montgomery Baily was born in Albany, N. Y., September 25, 1841. His father was killed when James was a child. His mother afterwards married a gentleman from Rome N. Y. and at that place, and in Albany, the family lived until the year 1860, when they moved to Danbury, Conn. At this time James was eighteen years of age. He had free range of the public schools, though at that time, like most other boys, he preferred business. He checked this inclination, however, and remained at school until his arrival at Danbury, where he worked with his step father at carpentry until August, 1862. Then came the war, and with it the Danbury youth took his first practical lessons in original composition. Mr. Bailey immediately enlisted in the Seventeenth Connecticut Volunteers, and served as private in that regiment until the war closed. Although he passed through many scenes of danger, he met with but one serious casualty; he was captured at Gettysburg, and with his friend, Mr. Dohovan, now his partner, was imprisoned in Richmond for two months. His letters from the army, over the signature of "H. P. Manton," were sent to the Danbury Times, and made for their author a considerable local reputation. After the war, Mr. Baily, with the fellow-member of the regiment with whom he was captured. Mr. Thomas Donovan, bought out the Danbury Times. This was in September 1865. It was a hard struggle at first to keep the times up, as the office was in a poor condition at the time of purchase. But the young firm succeeded at last, and March 1st, 1870, the Jeffersonian was purchased and was consolidated with the Times, thus making the Danbury News. The paper was made strictly local, and it was not long before people discovered that one good paper was better than two poor ones.

All this time the local notices which have since made such a reputation, were slipping into the paper from time to time, and it soon became the fashion to copy them. In 1870 items became quite well known, and in 1871 all newspaper readers were able to recognize them. At the present time there are not a few who recognize in M. Bailey a fund and a quality of humor second to none in the country.

With this slight sketch and a portrait, we will leave Mr. Bailey with our readers. We may say, however, for the satisfaction of any curiosity that either sex may have on the subject, that Mr. Baily is a married man. He has no children now living, and resident at Danbury, apparently not at all uplifted by the full measure of fame which has been brought to him.

Mrs. Laura Fair's Lawyer in Search of his Fee.

Mrs. Laura Fair, the acquitted killer of Crittenden, appeared in a San Francisco court on the 30th instant, to show cause why she should not pay to Judge Leander Quint, a lawyer, the sum of $3,500 for his services as counsel during her two trials for murder. A large crowd was present to hear the details of the case, and Mrs. Fair was naturally the centre of attraction to curious eyes. She "was looking," poetically remarks the local reporter, "as fresh as a dandelion in May. She had on a new steel-stripped dress, with polonate, and a bustle made of Morning Calls. A jaunty little white straw-hat rested on her soft golden hair like a bird's nest, and on top of the hat were two prim, stiff-looking spears of grass that resembled two little marine sentries with fixed bayonets. A thin veil partially obscured the soft, delicate, peach bloom that suffused her face, but her eyes shone through bright and sparkling, and her whole manner was animated and vivacious." It will thus be seen that Mrs. Fair was in excellent spirits for resisting the magnificent claim of her sometime counsel upon her purse. Judge Quint, the plaintiff, stated his side of the story, which was to the effect that on the 11th of November, 1871, he made an agreement with Mrs. Lane, the mother of Mrs. Fair, to defend the latter on her trial for the murder of Crittenden.

The price stipulated was $5,000, of which $2,500 was paid down at the time, and he gave Mrs. Lane a receipt for this sum with a provision attached to the receipt that the remaining $2,500 was to be paid at the conclusion of the trail, in whatever court the case might by tried. The first trial of Mrs. Fair began on March 27, 1871, and was concluded on the 26th of April. When the second trial came on, Judge Quint appeared as assistant in the defense to Judge Curtis, who was employed by Mrs. Fair, after the first trial, to take charge of her case. It is for this service that he now claims the other $3,500. The balance of the claim, $3,500, he lays to expenses incurred in working up the case during the first trial. Mrs. Fair's account, in opposition to the claims of Judge Quint, is, that her mother made the agreement about the $3,500 additional without her knowledge or assent; that Quint had got $3,500 which was all she had intended to give him, and that she had stated on several occasions during the second trial that she did not want Judge Quint as an assistant counsel. She had only consented to his so serving at the request of Judge Curtis, who told her that Quint would charge nothing additional for his services. She had further offered to pay Judge Quint his bill of expenses if he would show the vouchers for them. This was the substance of the stories related by the plaintiff and the defendant, and the proceedings in court were much enlivened by a loud roar of laughter which chased through the court room—a laugh in which Mrs. Fair joined—when Judge Curtis, in the course of his evidence, said something about Mrs. Fair's insanity.

Why Will Ye Die?—Death, or what is worse, is the inevitable result of continued suspension of the menstrual flow. It is a condition which should not be trifled with. Immediate relief is the only safeguard against constitutional ruin. In all cases of suppression, suspension or other irregularity of the "courses," Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator is the only sure remedy. It acts by giving tone to the nervous centres, improving the blood and determining directly to the organs of menstruation. It is a legitimate prescription, and the most intelligent Doctors use it. Prepared by J. H. Bradfield, druggist, Atlanta, Ga; $1 50 per bottle, and sold by respectable druggists everywhere.

Tuskegee, Ala.

Mr. L. H. Bradfield—Sir: Please forward us, immediately, another supply of Bradfield's Female Regulator. We find it to be all that is claimed for it, and we have witnessed the most decided and happy effects produced by it. Very respectfully,
